The award-winning SPIRIT of the JERSEYS State History Fair is returning in 2011 at a new location - the Historic Village at Allaire in Farmingdale.

Set amidst the village center of James P. Allaire's Howell Iron Works, visitors will once again experience four centuries of NJ's history. Period games and music, military encampments, tours and exhibits will be featured.

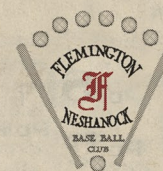

Admission is still FREE, so bring your friends and family to this fun-filled adventure into NJ's past. It is the only state-wide history event of its kind! Don't miss this opportunity to journey back in time and Play Ball!

America's Favorite Pastime

comes to Allaire

The Flemington Neshanocks will take the field on Saturday, May 7 as they face the Elizabeth Resolutes in what should be a great match-up. The game will be played using 1864 rules. Players will wear uniforms and equipment of the 19th century.
